Abstract:

Human society has never developed evenly and smoothly. Progress was followed by crises, successes followed by defeats, prosperity followed by poverty. When a certain society faces a crisis in terms of economic-political, moral-religious, artistic-aesthetic development, it needs advanced philosophical teachings to get out of it. At each stage of human development, these problems are put on the agenda anew. In the process of studying them, the state and society continue to progress.

Keywords: modern world, society, society stability, consolidation, human.

One of the directions of modernization in the country is primarily related to political modernization, that is, qualitative renewal of politics, elimination of contradictions that arise in this process. "Political modernization is a major problem that always arises and resolves itself, especially for societies in transition. Political modernization, like politics, is directly linked to the structures of the political process. In this, political values, political institutions, political activities and relations, the entire political process are aimed at objectively identifying contradictions and timely elimination, searching for forces and tools that ensure the introduction of innovations that meet the urgent needs of society. Its essence and purpose is to identify current problems in a timely manner, to successfully solve them and to use innovations for the consistent development of society" [1.3.]. A correctly chosen direction of political modernization becomes a decisive factor in the consolidation of society. In this process, the concept of consolidation is linked to an agreement based on diversity and trust in current political figures. In it, the modernization takes on an urgent importance due to the cooperation of the participating parties and forces, their mutual support, unity of views, active citizenship positions, and the formation and strengthening of a strong society that relies primarily on democracy, high spirituality and support of citizens in its activities. In this process, the most important thing is to unite forces with different political views and ideas about the future for the development of the Motherland.

According to the researchers, the insufficient intensity of this process is due to the fact that the country's administration continues to look at consolidation as "an instrumental value [2.] that can initiate, implement, create, and shape changes." At the same time, the mechanisms of consolidation are considered simple and insignificant in relation to socio-political and economic life, meaning that the aspect of manipulation prevails.

The relevance of the idea of consolidation in the political agenda for a long time is also shown by "Administrative measures: construction of power verticals at different levels, formation of defined tasks and forcing by instructions, without taking into account people's opinions. specific social groups" is difficult to fully implement. "Attempts to ideologically ensure the unity of the power structures and the population" [3.13.] were not effective enough. An ideological process controlled and controlled by the elite is primarily aimed at solving its own problems. This is the ideological support of the power elite and the social consensus of the state, ideological support of the activities of the elite and its leading role.

At the current stage, the implementation of the tasks of strengthening society depends not only on the success of reforms and socio-political changes. In the development and implementation of various directions of state policy, it is determined in many ways how this process is carried out, what factors and features of society's life are taken into account.

In particular, it should be noted that the "New Development Strategy of Uzbekistan for 2022-2026" was adopted at the new stage of Uzbekistan's development. In particular, the 11th goal of the 1st priority direction is called "Improving the mechanisms of communication with the people", and it is specified in it to ensure the consistent implementation of the national program "People's State", which implies the implementation of the idea of "The state must serve the people"[4.25.].

A unique system of social development is being formed in our country. In this regard, in 2017-2021, the tasks defined in the Action Strategy for the five priority directions of the development of the Republic of Uzbekistan are being implemented, programs such as "Prosperous village", "Prosperous neighborhood", "Youth are our future", "Five positive initiatives" are mobilizing the population to think and work in a new way. is playing an important role[5.]. As a result, even the remotest regions of the country, the villages located far from the centers, are radically renewed, and the living conditions of the population are being improved.

At the initiative of the President of the country Shavkat Mirziyoyev, the Strategy of Actions on the five priority directions of the development of the Republic of Uzbekistan in 2017-2021 was adopted.

In conclusion, the changes and reforms in the development of the society in the new stage of development are creating conditions for the power of our people. A good thought leads to good, a bad thought leads to evil. The consolidation of the development of the society increases depending on the national idea. Social consolidation is moving towards progress based on the idea "From national revival to national progress".
