Abstract:

The article describes the pedagogical foundations of the development of military-patriotic qualities in young people, military culture and its specific features in ensuring the protection of the Motherland, its national security, territorial integrity and sovereignty. The place and role of military culture competences in the formation of military culture skills and qualifications in young people were studied, and the social and pedagogical issues of military culture were considered.

Key words: Culture, military culture, military pedagogy, skills, competence and skill, patriotism, military duty.

One of the priority directions of the youth policy of the Republic of Uzbekistan is to educate the growing young generation in the spirit of patriotism, to form in them a high sense of respect for the history and spiritual values of our people, the qualities of bravery and courage, in them the defense of the Motherland, In order to develop the skills and abilities to be always ready to ensure the national security of the Motherland, the territorial integrity of the Motherland and the sovereignty of the country, the implementation of education in the military-patriotic spirit is becoming urgent.

Formation of an active life position, patriotism, attitude to the conscious performance of military duty in young people, who are the guarantee of the peace and development of our country, is developing a number of requirements. These are humanity, comfort, systematicity, expediency, harmony, as well as moral, aesthetic and legal unity. In other words, the principles of the use of the armed forces in their activities, their goals, tasks and methods, military service obligations, mutual relations, in particular, the official norms that shape and trace the military culture and determine the basis for strengthening the moral norms and military regulations. legal documents, the main methods of training high discipline, devotion to duty and skill, courage and fortitude, conscientious performance of military work, bravely overcoming the difficulties of military service, performing military duty, supporting the mutual relations between young people defined in general military regulations, strengthening military brotherhood and providing mutual assistance, behaving decently in public places, refraining oneself and others from inappropriate behavior, increasing legal culture[1.492.] and ensuring high military discipline and legal order, It includes helping to protect the rights and freedoms of citizens.

To explain that it is the duty of every citizen to protect the territory and integrity of our country based on the principle of development strategy from the action strategy of the Republic of Uzbekistan, to create in their consciousness immunity against the ideas of religious extremism and fundamentalism, to protect the territorial integrity of the country, the historical and military traditions of the Uzbek people. Propaganda work is being carried out on the basis of strategic programs related to determination of qualities such as preservation, as well as a high sense of responsibility for the future and fate of the country. In particular, in order to further strengthen the defense capability of the state and increase the quality potential of the armed forces, social support of the military, and to increase the effectiveness of measures to educate young people in the spirit of military patriotism, within the framework of the 90-91 goals of the State Program [2.], items 273-277: Further increasing the prestige and attractiveness of military service among the population and youth, improving the system of granting benefits to citizens who have completed military service in the Armed Forces, Uzbekistan "On General Military Obligation and Military Service" In accordance with the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan, development of a regulatory legal document providing for the mechanism of the organization of the educational and material base of the subject of primary training before the draft, establishing the procedure for the organization of the primary preparation before the draft in general education schools, reserve military rank and qualification for science teachers A comprehensive program was adopted on the introduction of the classification system and the approval of the program of measures to gradually strengthen the educational and material base of the subject in 2023-2026. Taking into account the essence of the pedagogical tasks to be solved in each field and the methods of solving them, the military pedagogical knowledge, outlook and intuition, abilities, as well as other qualities and personality formations of the young generation are taken into account, as well as skills and qualifications. In the organization of individual and collective educational activities, first of all, formation, development, stimulation and improvement of knowledge in military-professional and educational activities, self-education and independent improvement of knowledge and skills are required.

The formation of high spiritual and military culture qualities in young people is the personal responsibility of each young person to fulfill his obligations and the requirements of general military regulations, maintaining internal order, strict compliance with the agenda and service time regulations of all young people, carefully organizing training to respect the rights and dignity of young people, to constantly care about them, to properly combine and use such factors as persuasion, coercion, public influence, to strengthen the team, to strengthen friendship strengthening, applying effective measures to strengthen and improve the original state of the rules of military order and the morale-spiritual condition of personnel, organizing legal propaganda, cultivating military honor and a sense of military duty and support, to create in the military community a mood of intolerance towards military indiscipline and social injustice, and is obliged to set an example in moral purity, modesty and justice, with the wide use of transparency.
