Annotation: Economic development can be achieved through the production of quality products and their competitiveness in domestic and foreign markets. To do this, the product is delivered to the consumer in each country based on certain norms, rules and standards. The article describes the activities of the branch.

Keywords: standardization, conformity assessment, products and services.

At present, the Surkhandarya branch of the Uzbek Center for Scientific Research and Quality Control of the Agency for Technical Regulation of Uzbekistan has 6 certification offices and a set of test laboratories in 3 areas. The Surkhandarya branch of the Uzbek Center for Research and Quality Control has been working to study the problems of enterprises based on investment projects, create opportunities for their production activities and provide practical assistance in directing products to domestic and foreign markets. Centralized training courses in the field of conformity assessment are conducted in accordance with the plan for enterprises and businesses engaged in the production of chemical, construction, food products. These training seminars, which are aimed at teaching international standards, involve qualified experts, answer participants' problems and questions, and provide necessary recommendations. At the same time, the enterprises and business entities participating in the seminar on innovations and changes in the field of standardization, certification and metrology are provided with detailed information on innovations and changes in the field.

As the population's demand for modern construction products grows, so does the quality of these products. Building materials used in building foundations, roads, and concrete production are also important. The complex of test laboratories of the Surkhandarya branch of the State Institution «Uzbek Center for Research and Quality Control» covers testing of all construction products manufactured in the region. At present, the testing of construction products is perfectly organized, and it is difficult and confusing to go to other regions to test the products of researchers.

The role of international and national standards in ensuring the safety of agriculture and food, construction, light industry products, production, delivery and storage in accordance with the established requirements is invaluable in our country.

In order to increase the production and export potential of enterprises and organizations operating in the region, the specialists of the Department of Quality Management Systems Implementation and Certification of the Surkhandarya branch of the Uzbek Scientific Research and Quality Control Center provide practical assistance to entrepreneurs. As a result, it helps enterprises and organizations to obtain international certificates in accordance with GLOBALG.A.P, OEKO-TEX, ORGANIC, UzDSt ISO14001, UzDSt ISO 9001 and UzDSt ISO 22000 standards, which create new opportunities for the export of products.

In addition, a cooperation agreement was signed with the Termez Institute of Engineering and Technology to conduct a practical training course on testing and use of testing equipment at the Surkhandarya branch of the Uzbek Center for Research and Quality Control. In this process, which is aimed at training young professionals with sufficient skills to conduct complex tests, students are provided with practical knowledge on the requirements for the proper use of testing equipment, safety aspects and quality service. In addition, graduates are provided with information on the latest developments and reforms in the field. In addition, a seminar on «Issues of office work in the state language based on the Latin alphabet» organized with the participation of professors and teachers of «Termez State University» and a scientific-practical seminar on cultural, educational and moral issues «Surkhandarya» is organized jointly with the staff of the branch. During the seminars, employees improve their knowledge and skills on how to work in the state language, spelling rules based on the Latin alphabet, the correct use of punctuation, and the problems encountered in this area and their solutions.
